

7521820209.txt

At this critical time in our history, it is more important than ever to unite the American people. I support the airing of RFDTV and other independent rural television offerings in urban America. This can only promote unity and understanding among us.

In another vein, we all need to understand where and how our food is produced because without the rural areas the city dwellers will soon cease to exist since our urban gardens will not produce enough to sustain us.