

7521824813.txt

All packets of data passed over the Internet must be treated equally. No provider should be able to institute a two or more tiered packet speed as this would give the Internet providers too much control and would allow them to manipulate traffic so that they, the internet providers could choose the winners. Give the companies huge tax breaks for more infrastructure, but don't let them control that will stifle innovation and competition.