

Changing Net Neutrality laws is the worst idea I have ever heard of. Changing these laws only benefit companies like Comcast, Time Warner, Verizon, AT&T, and COX. No other company will benefit from these laws being changed. When you have companies like Facebook, Google, Amazon, and many other companies. All opposed to this change of rules nothing good can come from it. How is it that a company like Comcast has such a huge influence in the government? A cable company is ranked number two for most influential companies in government. A company that primary job is providing people with TV services. It's not like back in the late 19th century where the most influential companies were steel, coal, oil, and railroads industries. The reason why Comcast and Time Warner have so much power is because the government has allowed these two companies to make an oligopoly to happen. An oligopoly is where the major companies have gotten together and agreed to not raise their prices, thus eliminating all competition. Comcast and Time Warner have a monopoly in the legal since and no one has done anything about it. Comcast and Time Warner need to be broking up as well as preventing them from ever become that strong again. By allowing these law to change Comcast and Time Warner will have an even bigger strangle hold on the market. The internet is a place where everyone has an equal shot at becoming successful. If these laws were to change companies like Facebook, Rooster Teeth, Google, Amazon, Netflix, and many other companies would have never gotten a shot at becoming successful. America is the same as the internet, on the fact nobody cares where you came from or how much money you have. It's a place where everyone has a chance at becoming successful. If the government changes these laws all they would have done is allow Comcast and Time Warner to become tyrants or dictators over the internet. That is an interesting thing to think about because the U.S. goes to war all the time against tyrants and dictators. Yes, Comcast and Time Warner would not kill anybody but they would prevent almost any new companies from becoming successful. These rule changes would eliminate any company or competition that would have gotten in their way. Please make the right decision and do not change these laws because all it will do is hurt the rights and freedoms of the American people. America stands for liberty, freedom, and justice for all.
