

August 03, 2014

To Whom it Concerns,

If we get the high speed internet, I expect to use it for research and my continuing education via the internet.

I also will probably use it for uploading my images onto the internet to offer some art for sale, and to share photos with friends and relatives. So many things are "multi media" dependent, that to have higher speed internet is essential to be able to watch short educational videos, or even make my own videos as is needed for my education.

Having higher speed internet will also help with getting whatever projects that I am working on at the time done, and with any possible ecommerce activities, such as selling online or even making purchases.

Thank you,

Kimberly J. Rowlett