

7521827774.txt

Net Neutrality is an integral aspect of a free and open internet. The foundation of the entire system lies in its ability to produce and disseminate information to absolutely anyone who seeks it out. Freedom of information is freedom of growth, plain and simple. Any scenario in which information can be limited to one's ability to pay for it serves to support a near-feudal style of government where only the fattest wallets can gain access to the best information available. This cannot stand.