

7521834300.txt

I support full net neutrality. The internet is a public information system, and access to information without preference to ISPs, commercial entities, or other criteria. The applicable model in all regards should be the common carrier; regulation of physical infrastructure and networking systems should be on the order of public utilities.