Net Neutrality is important to the future of small business and entrepreneurs in America. This, of course, is not an interesting argument to the likes of Comcast who are more than willing to stick it to the American consumer who wants cable TV and Internet access and must access the current monopoly to get them. There should be no fast lane/slow lane, ultra fast lane/fast lane, malarkey - we all already pay a high premium to just have access to the internet, we should be able to use it to access all offerings at the same rate.
