Big companies like this should not be merging, there is little enough competition out there as it is and competition is what drives innovation and creativity, producing a better world for all, allowing big companies to monopolize like this would hurt the industry and all involved, giving people less choice rather than better choice. Net neutrality is also an issue and the internet should remain free and not ever be controlled by any one company or be allowed to be restricted or blocked in any way, with fast and slow lanes of traffic, prioritizing some sites over others and basically extorting money out of sites to give people access to them and so on.
