

7521865090.txt

I believe that the Internet should be open to everyone. It is unfair and immoral to charge some people more for the same service. Internet providers are already raking in record profits. This would only increase their profits and harm consumers.