I do not agree to this merger and feel that in doing so we, as a nation, would be allowing a monopoly to be created. Both companies offer extremely poor customer service and do NOT deliver on their internet service speeds.

Because there is already very few choices in cable/internet providers, most residents of the US are only able to sign up with a single carrier because that's all that is available in their area. There is no competition in the market anymore and these companies do not have to provide a superior product or customer service, they only have to exist.

By permitting the merger of two of the largest cable/internet providers you will be creating a monopoly and will be further limiting the choices and ability of the American public to access a free and open internet.
