

7521897189.txt

I want Internet service providers classified as common carriers. Companies should not be able to charge access fees for faster internet, especially when the internet service provided in this country is laughably slow compared to other countries on Earth. Access fees would take America 5 steps backwards - let's not fall even farther behind.