

7521963061.txt

Americans pay more than for broadband services than most countries, and yet receive slower, poorer service as a direct result of lack of competition. We should take action to allow and help other providers a chance to get to market. Stop allowing the monopoly of ISPs. Maybe if we get neutral voices overseeing the communications department that would help.