

7522005982.txt

I am expressing my belief that the internet should remain open to all users without limits to access rates that could be imposed by ISPs based on low/high speed lanes. Restricting free and equal access to the most important communication tool in modern times is equal to denying a basic freedom. This should not be allowed in a free & open society that American life is based on.

Thank you for consideration of my viewpoint in making future rulings on access to internet.