

This is disgusting. It's the doom of the American public. This is our access to information, that you are beginning to monopolize. Would it be worth my time to ask if money is the only thing that matters? Do I already know the answer? Did you ever want what was good for the American people or have you been money hungry since you started working for the government? I suppose I can continue to express how fucked up you and your full pockets are, but in reality you wouldn't care. Maybe you won't even read these, but this is literally unconstitutional. Maybe we can stop this and maybe we can't, but at what point do you look back at your lives and ask yourselves if you have a job well done. I only really hope that the fact that your only potential in life has been making money for other people and manipulation of a weak population makes you feel as if you failed the big picture in the universe.
