This is ridiculous, you're ruining a great invention due to your constant thirst for money that you as an organization do not require. The masses will do their best to alleviate the shitstain that the internet will eventually be immolated with, however there shall be a point where you yourself will try to alleviate it. No one is going to fall for this or pay for it, nobody at all. No matter what promotions you promise, this is not going to work. People will find workarounds to this, people will protest and you will probably undergo an attack in some form (most likely virtual e.g. DDoSing). Millions of internet users are showing their utter discontent towards your proposal, do you really think they're going to then choose to pay for it? Please, embrace equality instead of greed and depose of this bill.
