

7522184386.txt

It doesn't take much to realize that this debate over net neutrality - or worse, turning the Internet into a public utility - is simply another attempt by the federal government to take control of another sector of the economy. Whether for power or tax revenue it doesn't matter, stop trying to fix things that are not broken, and leave the American people and the Internet alone!