

7522228137.txt

It is extremely disappointing to see this proposed change being seriously considered. There are strong benefits to certain companies and the internet was not created by them, merely a benefit to their private business. It is not the government's job to grant special privileges to existing businesses.

The supreme success of the internet has been because all players large and small, new and old had a level playing field. Please do not approve the proposed changes.