Dear FCC,

My name is Tyler Miller and I live in San Francisco, CA.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs could have too much power to determine my Internet experience by providing better access to some services but not others.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because ISPs could act as the gatekeepers to their subscribers.

The internet provides tools that are indispensable in helping to level the playing field for underprivileged citizens in the USA and the entire world. Set a global example by keeping the internet neutral.

Sincerely,

Tyler Miller
