Dear FCC,

My name is evan s. and I live in higganum, CT.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it it may limit some users freedom of speech

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service will be less likely to succeed.

If net neutrality is gone what will happens next? It might even get to the point where only large companies can post on the internet. Also with the amount of people who make a living off the internet, or just like to use it, there are definitely gunning be at least a few protests.

Sincerely,

evan s.
