Dear FCC,

My name is Ann Perrigo and I live in Allegan, MI.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it the ISPs will have too much control over what we, the people, can access.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service will be less likely to succeed.

As a public librarian I strongly support the concept of freedom of information. If we are forced to pay to access certain parts of the internet, it will greatly constrict the kind of information we can see. Sounds like the beginning of a closed society to me!

Sincerely,

Ann Perrigo
