Dear FCC,

My name is Lee and I live in Santa Rosa, CA.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs will censor & price-jack the internet, killing jobs. ISP's are monopolies in most markets and abuse customers already.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service will be less likely to succeed.

The Internet is so successful because the big "providers" have been restricted from a few of their attempted abuses. Allowing these de-facto monopolies and cartels to crowd out and abuse all but the politically connected, large companies would be crony capitalism at it's worst. The FCC should be busting the monopolies so that we have more competition in the "last mile". It should not be handing more abusive power to companies, *already* proven to have the worst customer service in the USA.

Sincerely,

Lee
