Dear FCC,

My name is Alejandro Servetto and I live in Ithaca, NY.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it The internet can be controlled and censored. It's waaaaay to easy for this to turn corrupt.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service will be less likely to succeed.

Shit man seriously? I have to justify this shit to you? It's clear that ISPs are just trying to fuck us in the ass and make more money out of making our lives harder. Why the fuck does anyone have to make up some bullshit excuse? We don't owe anyone a fucking explanation. I don't want to pay for shit when it's obvious that this whole net neutrality thing is a giant shakedown. Like in the mafia. The mafia is taking over the fucking internet. Are we really okay with this? God. Re-naming a shakedown as "net neutrality" doesn't make it any less of a fucking shakedown.

Sincerely,

Alejandro Servetto
