Dear FCC,

My name is Noa Page and I live in Wyoming, MI.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it users may have fewer options and a less diverse Internet.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service will be less likely to succeed.

My wife and I run a small business online. We have sacrificed for this, living tightly, squeezing into a one bedroom apartment, sharing one car, putting off having kids. Our business is small, but growing, and we have high hopes for the future. Net neutrality means we have a fair shot at our prosperity that we sacrifice and work towards. Please protect a neutral playing-field over one that might greatly benefit a few, but potentially harm many and ultimately damage the United States.

Sincerely,

Noa Page
