Dear FCC,

My name is Shotaro Miyata and I live in Irvine, CA.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs could have too much power to determine my Internet experience by providing better access to some services but not others.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because ISPs could act as the gatekeepers to their subscribers.

The internet is the future. It is a huge part of our lives. It is where so many of us get our information, ideas, and where so many of us express ourselves. This is possible due to net neutrality. The possibility of playing favorites with this information and accessibility is terrifying. A free and open web is a fair one, and it should be kept this way.

Sincerely,

Shotaro Miyata
