

7522847966.txt

Net neutrality is one of the key, defining features that has allowed the internet to grow and become the place it is today. Allowing ISPs to throttle connections directly violates the spirit of the internet, and would allow businesses to indulge in blatant extortion of economic rivals. This is simply unacceptable.