Don't do it. If you make fast lanes you essentially are letting the rich get richer. The middle and working classes won't be able to afford to pay for this. And almost everything we do/use is now on the internet and uses some type of technology. Homework, shopping, businesses, magazines, all of these are platforms that are now digital. Almost all of my little sister's classwork and homework resources are online. My parents can't afford to pay for internet and so what happens to her? Do you see?

If you do this you will make it harder for the majority of the U.S and better for the rich. The U.S always talks about equality and democracy yet everything done now contradicts the the constitution that unites us as a country. Kill net neutrality and continue to let the internet be a equal and democratic place for all people. If you truly believe in democracy, an equal playing field, opportunity for all, and the idyllic American Dream, then you will end net neutrality. The internet is one of the only good things America has gotten right.
